

RAILROAD WAGES SLASHED $400,000,000

R. R. LABOR BOARD ANNOUNCES 12 PCT. WAGE REDUCTION

RAILROAD EXECUTIVES ARE DIS-APPOINTED AS THEY EXPECT-
ED $600,000,000 CUT

BOARD'S DECISION AFFECTS THE WAGES OF 2,000,000 EMPLOYEES
—EVERY CLASS AFFECTED

(By United Press)

Chicago, June 1—Railway executives here today declared that they were disappointed in the decision of the railroad labor board cutting the wages of all classes of railway employees twelve per cent or a slash of $400,000,000 from the railroads pay roll annually.

"We had hoped that the decision would wipe out in its entirety the $600,000,000 increase of last year," said President H. E. Byron of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

"We will have to find out how much this decrease will reduce our operating costs before attempting to predict anything about rate decreases to follow this wage cut. This is a step in the right direction however, and will help business and unemployment on railroads."

The decision of the board affects approximately two million railroad employees. It provides for a cut in every class of railroad labor from engineers to common labor. Approximately six hundred thousand maintenance of way employees are given wage reductions of eight and one-half cents an hour.

"The decision provides for reduction of about twelve per cent in present wages," the board announced.

While the decision announced today applies only to 86 railroads, all carriers are a party to it as reduction of all classes of labor are given until July 1 to file applications for reductions so practically every railroad in the country will be a party to the July 1 decrease.

The decision is based on the present rates of pay as established by the $600,000,000 wage award of July 20, 1920. Common labor pay, over which the railroads made their hardest fight, is to be reduced 6 to 8 1/2 cents an hour, cutting freight truckers average monthly wages to $97.10 and track laborers to $77.11. This new schedule still gives section men an average daily wage of $3.02 for an eight-hour day, although considerable testimony offered by the roads, particularly in the south, showed common labor wages as low as $1.50 for a 10-hour day.

Shop crafts employees and train and engine service men, except those in passenger service, are reduced 8 cents an hour. Construction and section foremen are reduced 10 cents an hour, cutting their average monthly pay to $146.

Passenger and freight engineers, who were given increases of 10 and 13 cents an hour by the 1920 award, are to be cut six and eight cents an hour respectively. Passenger and freight conductors, who received increases of 12 1/2 and 13 cents in 1920, are cut 7 1/2 and 8 cents respectively by the new schedule.

Train dispatchers and yardmasters whose monthly earnings at present average $260 and $270 are cut eight cents an hour. The smallest reduction will apply to office boys and other employees under 18 years of age, who will receive five cents an hour less after July 1.

One of the significant readjustments in the decision is the reclassification of clerks whereby entering clerks, usually young men and women of 18 to 20 years of age, will receive a monthly salary of $67.50 for the first six months and $77.50 for the second six months of service. Clerks with less than one year's experience now receive $120. The attitude of the railway unions toward the decreases ordered remains to be determined. It has been generally understood that the union men would accept decreases of from 10 to 12 1/2 per cent. The big brotherhoods are expected to meet here July 1 to consider the board's decision, which is effective on that date.

President Calls on I. C. C. Head

Washington, June 1—The president made a personal call at the office of Chairman Clark of the interstate commerce commission immediately after announcement of the railroad wage reduction by the railroad labor board. It was learned authoritatively that the commissioners reviewed with him what they are doing to adjust rates which Harding believes must precede a return to prosperity.

Harding was told that revision of rates for the most part are being made voluntarily through concerted action by the commission and the railroads.

The president expressed interest in what was being done to modify rates on fruits which Pacific coast interests say are so high that fruit cannot be shipped to eastern markets. He was assured that this phase of the market problem is now informally before the commission.

The president was at the I. C. C. for half an hour meeting Clark and other members of the commission who were at their offices, and then walked back to the White House smiling and nodding to government clerks he chanced to meet. The president seemed satisfied with his conference.

It is unusual for a president to call on a subordinate government official. The usual procedure is to call the official to the White House. President Wilson frequently broke this rule by calling on cabinet members, but this is the first time Harding has done so.

The visit was taken as a forerunner of announcement of a complete plan of the administration for rehabilitation of the national transportation act.

DAYLIGHT HOLDUP BANK MESSENGERS IN MINNEAPOLIS

SIXTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS IN CASH SECURED BY FIVE
AUTO BANDITS

BANDITS WERE UNMASKED—ES-CAPE TOWARDS ST. PAUL IN TOURING CAR

(United Press)

Minneapolis, June 1—Five men held up two bank messengers just as they were entering the Millers & Traders State bank at Fourth street and Fourth avenue at 9:30 today and escaped in a touring car with $16,000. The bandits used a Willys-Knight car stolen in St. Paul last night. Apparently the robbery had been carefully planned.

The bank messengers saw the car coming down the street but thought nothing of it. Just as they started to enter the bank the bandits drew up to the curb and pointed automatics demanding the money bags containing gold and currency. The money was to be used to cash checks of flour mill employees today.

None of the bandits were masked. They headed for St. Paul. Police of the city sent out flying squads armed with guns and rifles. Motorcycle policemen joined in the search.

Hearings in Stillman Divorce Case Are Resumed Today

(United Press)

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 1—Secret hearings in the Stillman divorce case were resumed shortly before noon today. Efforts of attorneys for Mrs. Stillman and her son Guy to postpone the case a week apparently were fruitless.

Hearings Postponed

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 1—Secret hearings in the Stillman divorce case were postponed today until Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week following an hour's argument by attorneys before Referee D. A. Gleason.

Efforts of Mrs. Stillman's attorneys to gain postponement were successful when Gleason satisfied himself that Chief Counsel Stanchford was unable to be present because of another case in New York.

Would Get Divorce To Swap Wives

(By United Press)

Anderson, Ind., June 1—Other men's wives as well as distant pastures, apparently are the most attractive.

Take the case of Gorman Huffman and his wife Babe, and Bill Muncy and his wife Glee, whose respective divorce suits are now pending in the court of Judge Wm. A. Kittinger here.

Bill and Babe want to get married and Glee and Gorman are inclined matrimonially to each other. The Huffman and Muncy families were next door neighbors. Although Muncy and Huffman worked in the same place they worked different shifts. Bill went on duty when Gorman came home and Bill came home just as Gorman was going to work. As the two families were friends naturally Gorman saw a good deal of Glee while Bill was not around, and Bill saw a good deal of Babe while Gorman was not nearby. Now they are awaiting divorce decrees.

The suspension came as a result of an investigation by Chas. Clabahan, postal inspector, who delved into charges that mail flyers were killed because of faulty planes and carelessness. Nelson's second trial started here Tuesday. The supreme court recently held that he was entitled to a new trial.

RACE RIOTS BREAK OUT LAST NIGHT IN OKLAHOMA CITY

BLACKS STORM JAIL TO RESCUE
NEGRO CHARGED WITH AS-SAULTING WHITE GIRL

TROOPS ARE CALLED OUT AND
BLACKS ARE ROUNDED UP IN CONVENTION HALL

(By United Press)

Comparative quiet reigned today after more than twelve hours of furious rioting, burning and pillaging that took an enormous toll of life and property.

The total number of dead was raised to 75 when additional bodies of dead negroes were found in the rioting area. Bodies of 68 negroes had been counted.

Officials were unable to estimate the total fire loss. It was estimated that more than five hundred homes of negroes were burned. A score of business buildings and a number of factories were razed. Large stocks of merchandise were a total loss.

Martial law was declared. State troops had rounded up nearly all of the ten thousand negro population and placed them under guard.

Tulsa, Okla., June 1—Race war ended today when troops rounded up three thousand blacks and marched them to Convention hall.

The blacks were marched with hats off and hands up from the scene of the fighting in the black belt to the center of the city.

The race riot which broke out last night and continued until today was caused when two hundred negroes tried to storm the jail to release a negro charged with assault on a white girl.

Two white men and one negro are known to be dead. Unconfirmed reports placed the death list at five whites and thirty negroes.

Special deputies and two thousand guardsmen rushed to the scene early today and were preserving peace. No renewed outbreaks were expected.

City in Flames, Several Blacks Burned
Scattered firing continued on the outskirts of the city but it was about ended.

Fire encircled about half of the area of the city from north to south of the suburban district at 11:30 A. M. Utmost confusion prevailed among fire fighters and police forces. The flames appeared in various sections following riots between blacks and whites. The check at police headquarters showed fifteen whites are seriously wounded and seventy negroes hurt. When the blaze got under way rioting ceased. The rioters aided by several companies of state troops devoted their efforts to battling the blaze. Several square blocks in the negro section were reported razed. Two companies of national guardsmen, one of infantry and one machine gun outfit were patrolling the streets of West Tulsa. Whites were deputized as rapidly as possible. Hardware stores were raided by civilians to obtain arms and ammunition. Every train entering the city was entered by guards and all negroes removed from passenger cars. The negroes taken into custody were herded together in schools and baseball parks.

Really Not Important.

An investigator claims to have discovered in some dusty archives that back in the days when the Pilgrims landed each person coming to America from England was required to bring with them eight bushels of corn meal, two bushels of oatmeal, two gallons of vinegar and a gallon each of oil and brandy. In view of the fact that nothing of importance hinges on the truth or falsity of this statement, not much time need be consumed to ascertain whether this is truth or fiction.

Brown Coal.

Germany expects brown coal to make her rich again. The beds of this newly discovered fuel are only a few feet below the surface of the ground, so that the material can be taken out with dredges. No shafts will be required; no timbering, no costly machinery, and no explosives. Of course "brown coal" is only coal in the making, with about one-third the heating value of bituminous. It contains much less carbon than the latter, more ash, and a good deal of water.

Mrs. E. O. Webb Hostess at Summer Home to Federation Club Women

The tea given by the Brainerd Musical club to the visitors and delegates to the Sixth District Convention of Women's Clubs, at the home of Mrs. E. O. Webb, on Portage lake, was a delightful affair.

Seasonable flowers bloomed in all the rooms, while nodding pink peonies matched the shades of the table candles. The table was artistically spread with a feast for both eye and palate. There were substantial ham and cheese sandwiches, delicious angel food, a choice variety of cookies, olives, nuts and candy, with charming merriment pouring tea and coffee.

During the afternoon, Mauritz Nelson, and Miss Alice R. Johnson furnished violin and piano music of a choice variety.

Eight out-of-town guests, and about half as many hostesses and accompanying car drivers filled the airy rooms and porches, or wandered about the spacious grounds of "Morningglow". The day was ideal and the lake view all that could be desired.

The Musical club is greatly indebted to Mrs. Webb for offering her home for this occasion, and to the social, refreshment and automobile committees and their assistants for making it such a complete success.

HAD LITTLE NEED TO WORRY

Queen Victoria Might Have Known Her Eldest Son Had Very Small Use for Water.

Prince Ferdinand Leopold of Austria is writing a book and in it he takes a fling or two at the British—well, one or two. Naturally not all of them are good natured. When the late King Edward of England then prince of Wales, was visiting in Vienna with the old emperor and a galaxy of archdukes, he received a telegram from London as he sat at a royal dinner table. It was delivered amid some stir, for it was known that it had had special privileges on the wires and that probably it came from his mother, the great Queen Victoria.

Probably, everybody thought, it concerned affairs of state of vital moment.

The prince of Wales, impressed by a somewhat similar idea, or, perhaps, worrying for fear that he might be recalled from his pleasant dalliance in the then brilliant Austrian capital, opened it at once with an anxious look upon his face. The old Austrian emperor and the archdukes, who were all at table with him, watched him curiously as he read it.

Having done this he sighed with some relief and then glanced about the table at the remarkable display of wines which always characterized even the simplest of the Hapsburg meals.

Taking a pencil from his pocket after this survey he scribbled a brief answer to the telegram and then told the tableful the contents of the message and the nature of his reply. The telegram had been sent by his worried mother, Queen Victoria, and said: "I hear the water in Vienna is not good. Be careful of it. Victoria."

His answer said: "Don't worry. Promise not to touch it."

In speaking of the Scotch (this being another of the good-natured stories) the prince tells of a MacDonald, taken prisoner by the Austrians and becoming celebrated as a story teller in the prison camp.

This MacDonald, it appears like every Scotchman, was inordinately boastful of his forebears. He was talking with an Austrian—one would think they must have been real pals!—and said that his clan was most ancient and distinguished of all. It had been well known before the flood.

His listener was amused. "I didn't see the name of MacDonald among the passengers in the ark," he quietly suggested.

"In the ark?" scornfully exclaimed Mac. "In Noah's ark? No. We wadna travel that way wif the crowd. Even in those days the MacDonalds had boats of their own."—New York Sun.

Where Bombs Fell in Paris.
On the wall of the Credit Lyonnais Bank, Rue de Choiseul, Paris, a tablet has been placed bearing the simple inscription: "Airplane bomb, January 30, 1918."

The ministry of war has had tablets placed on the walls of the houses near which the first and last bombs of the war fell in Paris, and it seems to be the general custom for private individuals to mark with some simple inscription the various points of the capital where damage was done by German bombs or shells.

The tablet on the wall of the Credit Lyonnais recalls one of the most murderous air raids ever made on Paris, 110 persons losing their lives, while several hundred were wounded.

It was shortly after 11 o'clock that the aerial torpedo, the first of the raid, fell in the Rue de Choiseul, killing a French soldier on leave and two Australian soldiers who were coming from the boulevards. The torpedo wrought great damage among the numerous banks in the vicinity.

FAITH THAT WAS PRACTICAL

Object Lesson in the Determination of Dominie Joe That He Would "Make Good."

Up in the Catskill mountains there lived a mountaineer who believed that he had been called to preach the gospel. He got a license, but he could get no church to preach in. Indeed, there was no church within many miles of where he lived.

For a while Dominie Joe, as he was called, preached in the schoolhouse, but, as he was always saying, what he wanted was "a real proper house of worship." During week days he was a hard-working farmer with meager resources; and whenever he spoke of a church to his hard-working neighbors they would shake their heads as if they thought him a little queer.

But the dominie did not give up his plan. Indeed, as time went on he thought of little else. He even selected a site for the church—a pretty knoll at the edge of his farm. One evening when he came in from milking his face was shining. "Maria," he said to his wife, solemnly, "the trouble with me is that I haven't had the real kind of faith. After milking this evening I kneeled down in the corner of the cow yard where I could see the little knoll, and with my eyes open I prayed and prayed until I saw the church just as plain as I see your face. It was white with green shutters and had a tall steeple; and on top of the steeple, Maria, was a bright star."

Dominie Joe's wife was worried; she feared that his head "had gone quite wrong."

In the middle of the night the dominie awoke and exclaimed "Maria! Old Josiah Sturges' tannery! Some one told me that Josiah had sold the old tannery site to a city man for a summer place. I'll bet that city man'll pay to have the tannery pulled down and carted away! And there's the stuff for our church!"

No one could withstand Dominie Joe's enthusiasm; that winter the farmers got together and carted the timber and the boards of the old tannery to the place where today stands as pretty and neat a country church, as you can see anywhere. Dominie Joe himself was a fair carpenter. Country masons and carpenters gave their work. During the afternoon of the church "raising" word went round that the city man had offered to pay for a steeple and buy a bell.

A visiting fisherman who frequently passes Dominie Joe's church says that he never sees the big gilt star on the steeple without thinking of the mountaineer kneeling in his cow yard and gazing at the vision of his faith.—Youth's Companion.

Quaint Wedding Coaches.

An American bridegroom who recently made his journey to the altar in a steam plov has had many rivals in matrimonial wedding carriages, observes London Answers.

It is not long since a bridal couple and their guests made a dramatic appearance in a Kentish village in a traction engine, and a procession of trucks gayly decorated with flags, flowers and evergreens.

A wedding party drove up to St. Mark's church, Birmingham, one Easter Sunday, in mourning coaches, the horses being incongruously adorned with white rosettes. A prettily decorated tramcar was the chosen vehicle of a Wolverhampton bridal party, the driver and conductor wearing white gloves and smart buttonholes, and the journey to the church being heralded by the explosion of a number of fog signals.

But perhaps the most novel journey of all was that of a young Austrian couple whose wedding procession slid down a steep hill from the bride's home to Payback church on seven toboggans decorated with pine branches and flowers.

EXPERT TUMBLERS

Angelo Armento and Brother to Appear at the New Park Theatre On This Thursday

Fifteen years ago a little, bronzo skinned bright eyed Mexican youth, an acrobat, joined the Sells-Floto circus when that tented organization was touring Mexico. He soon became known as a fearless and wonderful performer who never hesitated to attempt the most difficult feats. The dark skinned lad was Angelo Armento, who today is recognized as the fastest tumbler in the world.

The young man who has been touring constantly in vaudeville and today he stands pre-eminent in his specialty. The Armento company does tumbling and hand balancing feats that are little short of marvelous and works with such amazing speed as to fairly bewilder the eye. As they come catapulting onto the stage from the wings they invariably create enthusiasm which is not allowed to lag for an instant. They appear Thursday at the New Park theatre.

At the Lyceum Theatre

The inside workings of a band of expert crooks is disclosed in "Blackmail," a Metro special production from the story by Lucia Chamberlain, in The Saturday Evening Post and which is announced as the feature attraction at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Thursday.

The photodrama features the attempts of a beautiful adventuresome to blackmail a wealthy young man into marrying her but when success seems assured love upsets the plot and with the aid of a brilliant young lawyer an entirely different turn is given the carefully laid plans of the band of underworld confederates.

Viola Dana is starred in the role of Flossie Golden, the daughter of a crook, and her supporting cast includes Wyndham Standing, Alfred Allen, Florence Turner, Edward Cecil, Lydia Knott, Jack Roi, and Fred Kelsey.

At the New Park

"Kazan," one of the most popular of James Curwood's delightful stories of the Canadian Northwest, is coming to the screen today at the New Park theatre.

This production was adapted and directed by Bertram Bracken. In the leading role is Jane Novak, and she is supported by Ben Deely. Other members of the cast are William Ryno, Ben Haggerty, Edwin Wallock. The part of "Kazan" is taken by one of the most intelligent "huskies" of the Canadian Northwest. The picture, it is said, abounds in wonderful photography of the great snow country and makes use of many varieties of wild animals in their native haunts. It is a gripping story of treachery, love and adventure, with a lesson taught and an example set by the savage but faithful dog "Kazan."

DISARMAMENT IS EARNESTLY URGED

ADMINISTRATION FEELING AN INCREASING PRESSURE TO TAKE THE LEAD.

HARDING TO PICK HIS TIME

Doesn't Obligate Himself to Carry Out Suggestion of Borah Amendment, Though He Has Withdrawn
His Opposition to It.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—The administration is feeling an increasing pressure in favor of the United States taking the lead in a movement among the major nations for a reduction in armaments. It was this pressure that influenced the President to withdraw his opposition to the Borah amendment to the navy appropriation bill, an amendment which suggests that the President invite Great Britain and Japan to join this government in a conference looking to a greater reduction in armaments.

In withdrawing its opposition to the Borah plan the administration was careful to let it be known that it was not obliging itself to carry out the suggestion of the Borah amendment in case the house should accept it and it should become a part of the navy appropriation bill as finally passed. Congress understands that the President reserves the right to take up the question of disarmament in his own time and in his own way. It is very well understood that the administration has placed disarmament on its program of things which it hopes eventually to accomplish, but it is not the understanding that the number is toward the top of the program.

Secretary of State Hughes has indicated from time to time that before such questions as disarmament, association of nations, and other matters of supreme world importance can be given thoughtful consideration, many smaller matters of international import must be disposed of. A favorite expression of the State department is that the "international underbrush" must be cleared out before the really far-reaching problems can be tackled. It is the view of the administration, and the President and Secretary Hughes undoubtedly feel that it is the view of the country, much as the country may desire disarmament, that the United States shall not take any step that will expose this country to danger.

Agitation From Three Sources.

The administration is not unmindful of the growing sentiment throughout the country in favor of cutting down expenses chargeable to preparation for war. The agitation in favor of disarmament, the letters and telegrams that reach the executive department reveal, is coming from three definite sources. The women's organizations throughout the country are particularly active. Recently they have been holding mass meetings in many cities and passing resolutions for the eye of the President. The churches of all denominations are also taking up the subject and day by day are bombarding the White House with resolutions and memorials. The third influence emanates from the tax-burdened business men of the country who realize, as do the authorities here, that a reduction in federal taxation is impossible so long as the government continues to spend so lavishly in preparing against possible wars.

While, as already pointed out, the decision of the administration not to continue its opposition to the Borah disarmament amendment to the naval bill does not commit the administration to any disarmament program, it is felt here that Senator Borah and the senators associated with him are in the fight for some definite recognition of the principle of disarmament have won a victory that is not without significance. The mere fact that any sort of an expression with regard to disarmament goes into the naval bill will undoubtedly encourage the forces throughout the country that are urging this government to take up the subject in a serious way.

Two Other Disarmament Plans.

Assuming that the plan provided by the Borah resolution will not be carried out by the administration, at least two other plans are possible. The subject may be taken up by the supreme council of the allies, or it may be held in abeyance for the consideration of the association of nations or League of Nations, which presumably the United States intends to join sooner or later. There appears to be excellent authority for saying that the administration believes it might be well to withhold any step until the question of whether there is to be an association of nations or a league of nations with the United States as a member is definitely settled.

It may turn out that the administration after further consideration will decide that it will be worth while to do as the Borah amendment suggests—invite Great Britain and Japan into a preliminary conference—but all the indications are that the administration has no thought of doing anything of the kind. Great Britain, it is well understood here, is not ready to go into a conference unless practically all the nations that are represented in the League of Nations are to be consulted.

COMMUNITY HAS NEW IDEA

Blanket Insurance Practically Covering Whole Town Is Said to Have Had Excellent Results.

All the workers employed by the various industries located at Kingsport, Tenn., have been insured against death, sickness and accident under a single group policy the New York Times records.

In all about two thousand persons employed by ten large concerns are thus protected and as the population of the town of Kingsport is estimated at about 10,000, almost every family in the community will receive a financial benefit in case of accident, sickness or death overtaking one of its bread winning members.

The policy has been in effect for some months. According to officials of the insurance company this is the first instance known where a whole community has adopted a standardized plan of insurance. The experiment is attracting the attention of many other municipalities, especially public officials who are interested in community service.

A prominent community worker has said that the prospective financial benefit to be derived by individuals under the policy was of far less importance than the general good which has resulted from the quickening of the conscience of the whole Kingsport community.

Garden Cities for London.

London is trying to work out its housing crisis by building little garden cities about twenty miles outside its limits. These experiments in whole-sale home construction are being carried on by the enterprise of private capital backed up with the generous government subdivision that is being given to all home construction projects.

The profits of the promoting company will be limited to seven per cent of the investment, the proceeds over and above this amount going back into town improvements.

The ideal house, so much talked of in England, that resulted from the Daffy Mail competition will be given a practical try-out in this new city. The name of the place when completed will be Welwyn Garden City.—New York Post.

Proposal to Make Land Route From

Washington.—It is possible, perhaps probable, that one of the results of a recent gathering of members of the Masonic fraternity in Washington will be that the United States government will take over the George Washington estate at Mount Vernon, care for it, provide the rules for the admission of visitors, and generally assume its administration.

Periodically for years there have been complaints because an admission fee is charged to the people when they visit the Mount Vernon shrine, for shrine it is and shrine it is called. It ought to be remembered, however, that if the admission fee had not been charged Mount Vernon would have been allowed to go to decay, and probably might have passed into private hands for exploitation in one way or another.

An association of American women some years ago took Mount Vernon over. The women have cared for it, have kept it up, and have guarded it in every way, but it has been necessary, in order to supply the funds for upkeep and administration, to charge an admission fee to those who wish to enter the grounds and the house.

When the Masons went down there to the number of a great many hundreds each one was compelled to pay the admission fee. It was not the price but the thought that people must pay to visit Mount Vernon that caused the visitors to urge that the United States government take over the care of the estate with its mansion house and the tomb of the Washington family.

National Highway Proposed.

Another proposal is that a great national highway shall be constructed between the city of Washington and Mount Vernon. The further suggestion has been made that the roadway should be lined with memorials of one kind or another. Mount Vernon lies about fifteen miles southeast of Washington.

The road further lies through Alexandria, which has a great many historic buildings within its borders, including Christ church, where Washington worshipped; the Masonic hall, where he attended the meetings, and other places of high interest.

Thousands upon thousands of persons go to the Washington shrine every year either by river boat, by trolley car or by automobile. The river ride is wonderfully beautiful. The highway suggestion, if it should be carried out, would make the land route perhaps just as beautiful.

At Mount Vernon there are two tombs, one known as the old tomb and the other as the new tomb, although as a matter of fact both of them are aged enough to be called old. About ninety years ago there was an attempt made to enter the old tomb. It is said that a body was taken from within it, but this has been disputed. The attempt led to the construction of the new tomb nearer the house and the remains of George and Martha Washington were removed to it and there they have been ever since.

In this connection a story perhaps may not be uninteresting. When I first came to Washington, nearly twenty years ago, I met an elderly man who, after I had known him for some little time, astonished me, naturally, by telling me that he was the only living person who ever had seen George Washington.

Man Who Saw Washington.

A little arithmetical calculation, which really was unnecessary if I had taken quick thought of the time that had passed since Washington died, made me know that the old gentleman, although he had seen eighty-five years, could not have seen George Washington. However, I asked him to tell me about it.

He said that when he was a boy about ten years old the driver of the stage between Washington and Mount Vernon asked him one day if he would not like to take a ride. "Naturally," he said, "I was delighted and I climbed up to sit by the driver and was carried down to Mount Vernon. When we arrived there we found that they were just removing the remains of Washington from the old tomb to the new tomb, and it was decided to open the casket for purposes of identification of the body. You see this was just after an attempt had been made to rob the tomb."

"They opened the casket and a man present lifted me up and I looked upon George Washington."

Fricassee.

Fricassee has usually been derived from the Latin word frigore to fry, through the French frier, but it is thought more probable now that it is derived from the French fricasser, meaning to break into pieces, or the Latin frigare, to rub. In French the word is used to indicate any meat fried in a pan, but the English meaning is a dish made from cutting chickens, rabbits and other small animals into pieces and cooking them in a frying or other pan with a gravy.

Future Queen of Siam.

The king of Siam has just been betrothed to Princess Vallabha Devi, who was for several years a student in the Harriet House school in Bangkok, operated by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions. Following the announcement of the betrothal, the father of the princess sent to the mission school an invitation for pupils and teachers to attend a reception to the princess at his home.

The present king of Siam is considered the best-informed man in his realm, and abreast of the times in his work and thought; and the announcement of his betrothal to a student of a Christian school is a matter of great satisfaction. Siamese advisers do not directly say that the princess is herself a professing Christian, but, even if she is, officialdom would not proclaim it. It is noteworthy that she has been under Christian influences for several years.

Dahlia a Mexican Product.

The flower known to us as the dahlia and which has been cultivated from its original form into scores of varieties, is a Mexican product. It grows wild in Mexico and it was not an American but a European who first realized its possibilities. This discoverer's name was Vincent Cervantes, who carried the roots to his native Spain in 1784. Two or three years later the Swedish botanist, Dahl, who gave it its present name, cultivated it. Shortly after the Frenchman, Andre Thouin, made further improvements in its growth.

Oil for the World.

During last year the United States produced sixty-nine per cent of the world's oil supply. It amounted to 544,885,000 barrels and that of this country was 377,719,000 barrels. Mexico furnished sixteen per cent, and Russia six per cent.

To Remove Scars.

Scars are difficult to eradicate, but a child or young person often will in time outgrow them. In some cases the scar tissue can be broken down and the appearance very much improved by electrical means. If one will be patient in steaming the scars and massaging regularly with a good cold cream this remedy will be of great help.

Price Always Kept Low
And The Reasons Why

THE Chandler price has always been kept low without sacrifice of quality. This has been made possible by the most efficient management, the most modern factory and the highest financial credit with sources of supply, together with the fact that we have always built one chassis, developed and refined as the years have passed, but never abandoned, because constantly more popular.

Some lines have manufactured simultaneously as many as three or four distinct models—not styles of bodies, but chassis. They have come and gone. You can probably imagine what such a policy means in manufacturing cost, in selling prices and in the resale value of such cars.

Chandler resale value is relatively higher than that of any car, after a like period of service.

WHAT AILS OUR FOREIGN TRADE

EUGENE MEYER, JR., DISCUSSES CONDITIONS THAT AFFECT BUSINESS ADVERSELY.

OUR OWN MARKET TOO SMALL

Exports of Manufactured Goods Will
More and More Become Dominant
Factor in America's International Trade, Says This Expert.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—According to Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the war finance corporation, American manufacturers are adversely affected by foreign trade conditions at this time chiefly in two ways. The first concerns the goods which should find their way to foreign consumers, and the other concerns the goods which would find a very much improved domestic market if the buying power of our own people were increased by an improved foreign market for the great mass of our agricultural and mineral products.

A large part of our territory has endured a prolonged financial strain, Mr. Meyer says, owing to the inability to move goods and to liquidate loans, and the commercial congestion necessarily has been paralleled by a financial congestion. The markets for our manufacturers are radically and unfavorably affected by the failure of our own market to take, in usual volume, the goods which we normally import. This is particularly true of imports from South America and Asia. A better buying power on the part of our own markets in certain commodities would, Mr. Meyer believes, improve the market for our manufactured goods in the lands that produce those commodities. "It is clear that the whole structure of our domestic business is intimately affected, directly and indirectly, by our foreign trade," said he. "Our imports of food products and raw materials influence our export markets, and our exports of other food products and raw materials make, to a great degree, our domestic markets for manufactured goods. Any sound constructive step which would tend to overcome, in whole or in part, the present difficulties would be of tremendous help to manufacturing interests as one great department of our economic activities."

Trend of Our Foreign Trade.

"Whether we look at the problem of our international trade from the point of view of the immediate situation, or from the point of view of developments in the future, it seems clear that the exports of American manufactured goods, under more normal conditions, will more and more become the dominant factor in the position of our country in international trade. Our exports of foodstuffs have been large in recent years, and are large now, but prior to 1914 they showed a tendency toward a steady decline. Our trade with foreign lands is tending, in the long run, to develop more rapidly in the direction of the exportation of manufactured goods. And in proportion to the growth of our exports of manufactured products the question of our international finances will become an increasingly important part of our international economic relations and policies."

"Europe's financial organizations for international trade were developed for the purpose of financing manufactured exports. The marketing of raw materials and agricultural products is a much simpler business than the marketing of manufactured goods. In short, foreign trade is peculiarly a problem for the future that calls for the best thought of manufacturers and bankers."

Mr. Meyer believes that the development of personnel and organization for future foreign trade and finance will be a gradual growth.

About the Edge Law.

Asked about the Edge law, which was supposed to stimulate foreign trade, he said: "The Edge law banks are expected to place American investment capital at the disposal of the foreigner for short or long periods. This will occupy here the position which the English and Scottish trusts filled in Great Britain before the war. They will issue their general debentures, secured by foreign loans or investments and by capital from the sale of stock. There is nothing new about an Edge law corporation as proposed; it is substantially the English and Scottish trust idea adapted to our purposes. So far, nothing has been done to interest our investors in the obligations or debentures of Edge law corporations."

We all hope that one or more of these institutions will succeed in raising adequate capital, and that a very useful need may thus be met. It should be remembered that the Edge act was passed 18 months ago, and nothing has been accomplished as yet under its authority.

"In the adjustment of the international relations of a financial character which marked the transactions in goods and services, securities played a very much more important role than gold," said Mr. Meyer in conclusion. "If there is any idea that, in the future, we are going to play a larger role as a financial center in this world situation than we have in the past, we must determine to establish an international security market in this country."

What Average Man Lacks.

The ignorance of the place we live in is inexorable; we are taught to read maps, and have a knowledge of the positions and contours of the lands of this globe; but not the plans of our cities and places we live in.—Lasky Ricardo.
